EDITORIAL CLIPPINGS.

Capitol removal is again being agitated in Tallahassee. We would prefer to see some of the officers occupying the Capitol removed. And there will be a shaking up next year.—White Springs Herald.

In the State primary election we were opposed to the nomination of Attorney-General Ellis because we believed that he belonged to William Sherman Jennings, and we wouldn't let a dog that belonged to Jennings bark at our dog if we could help it, but recent events have brought him out in a more favorable light, and we hereby tender him all the credit due.—White Springs Herald.

In Tallahassee there is a rift with the late of the governor's cabinet that threatens serious consequences. When the attorney general draws and recommends a bill which the governor and other members of his official family condemn as both useless and bad, there should be something done before many days. And if the board of internal improvement escape now there must be an earthquake or a miracle.—Times-Union.

"Avaricious land sharpers caused the scare in the Fish-eating creek region, which was noted abroad as an uprising among the Seminole Indians. These men contrived to raise a great racket in that vicinity in order to frighten away settlers so that the latter would desert their estate and leave them to the land sharks." In these words Rev. W. J. Godden, fresh from the Big Cypress, in the Everglades, summarized the gist of the recently much vaunted Indian troubles at the Tribune office yesterday. According to the Rev. Mr. Godden there was nothing more nor less in the entire episode than a waste of words.—Tampa Tribune.

Senator Crill is pressing his bill providing for a state geologist.—Madison Recorder.—A very important measure it is and Senator Crill can always be depended upon to press such measures as are calculated to work out the most good to the people of the whole state. A more consistent, conscientious, straightforward man never served in a Florida legislature than he is, and while state treasurer he was loved by all who had business and social intercourse with him. Florida has many good citizens in public life, and Dr. Crill belongs to the class of them that will always be loved, honored and respected.—True Democrat.

"The Boosters" is the name of an organization at East, according to the Live Oak Democrat, and is the first organization of the kind to be formed in the state. Every man in Florida ought to be a "booster," and it is not necessary to belong to a "Booster" organization, either, to be one. If you do your duty as a citizen to your county, city or state, you are a "booster." However, in organization, there is strength, and better facilities offered for accomplishing the objects of the "Boosters," which are as follows: "To induce all good citizens to come and visit or reside in your town; to extend to all visitors or newcomers hospitality and such favors as will induce them to remain longer and also to become enthusiasts as we are; to act in harmony with officers of neighboring transportation lines, so far as to better protect traveling facilities; to maintain, when possible, an information bureau which may be of general service to all visitors; to tell on every opportunity, all the things in which your community excels, and whenever you run across a knocker, just give him a GOOD BIG KICK WELL PLACED.—Tropical Sun.

Albert Jennings ought to apply to this legislature for a change of name if he is in earnest about running for governor. There are thousands of voters in this state patiently awaiting the opportunity to get even with another fellow who carried that same name to Tallahassee a few years ago. That is not a good name to head a ticket in this state.—Fernandina Record.—The former Jennings is still closely connected with the present administration, and there are those who are striving strenuously to place Hon. T. A. Jennings as Mr. Broward's, or the administration candidate. Mr. Jennings defines his position clearly in two interviews in the Pensacola Journal, and as it will be some time before the campaign opens up in earnest, let's not commit ourselves to any one as a candidate for governor until we know just who will be in the race and what each one of them stands for. No one loaded up with "pet sores" will satisfy the people again, however, as about eight years of that kind have been sufficient. The next Governor of Florida should be a man of and for the people's interest, one that would consult with and be guided by the desires of a majority of people in each county as to what they want, and not one that he got to be governor, and political henchmen who desired for services rendered to be exar.—True Democrat.

"The Terror."

(Copyright, 1905, by Homer Sprague.)

Colonel Whiteside was a lawyer. He was well to do, of middle age and had a fondness for athletics. He had a record as a bicyclist, and he owned and drove a trotting horse. When the auto appeared his friends knew that he would soon have a machine.

A perfect machine—a thing of brass and steel as easily controlled as a child's toy, an almost living, breathing creature, moving at a walk, if the director willed, or flying along the highway at the rate of a mile a minute—stood in a garage, and the colonel inspected it. He had scarcely begun when fear crept over him. To others the machine was an object of curiosity. To him there was something uncanny about it.

A year passed, and yet the colonel had not joined the ranks of the auto-ists. Then men began to smile and throw out sarcastic hints. Out of every hundred autoists ninety-eight are afraid of their machines. The other two are reckless of consequences. The ninety-eight know that they take their lives in their hands every time they go out.

Until Colonel Whiteside realized that he was an object of unfavorable comment he heeded the warning whispers. When his "nerve" was questioned he was forced to buy. He talked, and the salesman and the chauffeur talked. Some one else talked also. It was the auto, and he alone heard its words. It breathed heavily. It hissed warningly. Its "chug, chug, chug," was a menace. It said:

"Buy me if you will, but look out. I am a creature of strange moods. I balk; I stampede; I go wrong on a sudden. I am not a tame animal, but remember that some day I will be the death of you."

The auto was purchased, and the colonel took instructions in its management. For a fortnight he went about with his heart in his mouth and ever on the watch for accident. Then he began to feel a contempt for the warning, a determination to defy and drive and take the upper hand. It was child's play. A turn of the wheel this way—that way—more speed—less speed—go ahead—stop. Why, the most docile horse he ever owned was not so servile and obedient. His bicycle had never been under such command. Ten miles an hour had satisfied him, but one day when the warnings recurred to him he became indignant and put the speed up to twenty. No calamity followed. He was as safe as he had been at half the speed. He returned home feeling that he was master.

The autoist who confines his pace to fifteen miles an hour this week will be making twenty next week. He must do it. He is driven to do it. His fellow autoists will laugh and grin if he does not do it, and he can't stand that. When Colonel Whiteside knew that he had made twenty miles an hour he was pleased and proud. Every minute of that hour he had expected accident. After that he got a chauffeur. That's the usual course of the ninety-eight. They leave the driving to somebody else and lean back and try to look placid and nonchalant. Now came twenty-five, thirty, forty-five miles an hour. The colonel gasped and felt a pain in his heart. He did not speak to the chauffeur because he was afraid his voice would betray him. He had a weakness of the knees, and things blurred to his vision. But for pride and fear of ridicule he would have said that never again would he ride at such a pace. Let him show the white feather and the man beside him would grin at a hundred others. Let it be whispered that a man is afraid of his auto and he is done for. The other ninety-seven are also afraid, but they will make common cause against the ninety-eight to conceal their fear.

"This machine can make a mile a minute," said the chauffeur in the garage one day as the colonel was ready for his spin.

"Yes?"

"And we'll let her out today."

"Very well."

There were a dozen men about, but had there been only the chauffeur to listen the colonel would not have dared to protest. He must acquiesce or be thought timid. He nodded his head and smiled, but at that moment the auto said:

"Yes, I will make a mile a minute, but look out for me. I have given you several warnings, but you have not heeded them. Today you shall feel the sensation of flying, but will you sleep in your bed tonight?"

The start was made. More obedient than any horse that ever wore harness, the machine rolled over the asphalt streets, guided by the slightest touch. There was time for the colonel to suggest that the pace be limited to thirty-five or forty miles an hour when the long, straight stretch of country road should be reached, but he feared to do so. The chauffeur is the real boss of the auto. He makes or un-makes the reputation of the owner for "nerve."

The colonel turned his face away and closed his eyes. The pace grew faster and faster. It went from thirty to forty, from forty to fifty, from fifty to sixty miles an hour. The machine had the road to itself. It chugged, it gasped, it flew. It was like a man being shot from a cannon. It was fearful speed, but it was as safe as—

Of a sudden the wheels skidded, the machine turned, and the farmer who came driving along found a broken telegraph pole in his path and battered auto gasping out its life and two dead men in the highway ditch. The terror had said it would be so, and it was so.

M. QUAD.

"The blood is the life." Science has never gone beyond this simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "thick" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers. Through disease the blood is also clouded, the mind and judgment are affected, and many an evil deed or impure thought is due to the impurity of the blood. No one can be well balanced in mind and body whose blood is impure. No one can have a wholesome and pure life unless the blood is pure. Pure blood can be made by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the blood is pure, body and mind are alike healthy and life becomes a joy. Hanging out in bold relief, all alone and a precious example of open, frank and honest dealing with the blood and mind. The plain facts on the bottle wrapper in plain English list full of the ingredients. Therefore not a patent medicine but a medicine of known composition.

STATE UNIVERSITY.

Gainesville, Fla., April 30.—The conversation at the German table in the mess hall has improved noticeably during the past month. The students can now discuss in German almost any subject of conversation that may arise. The presence at the table of Dr. and Mrs. Berger both of whom are of German descent, Dr. Benton Crow and Flint, all of whom have spent several years in Germany, and of Herr Hess, who has but recently arrived from Stuttgart, has added much to the interest of the students. This German table is proving a valuable adjunct to the Department of Modern Languages.

On Saturday May 4th, will be held the second of the series of contests being arranged by the committee on athletics. The events will be mainly of a military and aquatic nature. The contestants are practicing earnestly. At the swimming pool may be seen every afternoon, a score of men practicing for the diving and swimming matches, and at the target range the crack of the pistol and of the rifle is heard incessantly during the hours free from college duties.

The college battalion took part in the Confederate memorial exercises held in Gainesville on the evening of April 28th, and marched into town in strict military formation.

Dr. Flint has taken one of his classes in chemistry to Jacksonville. While there they will, at the invitation of the managers, have an opportunity to observe the operation of the plants which illustrate modern methods and appliances in industrial chemistry.

Among the recent lectures before the students in the Department of Education which have proved particularly interesting were those by Dr. Flint, on the "Chemistry of Digestion," and by the Hon. Horatio Davis, on "The Judicial System of the United States."

Sealing Wax.

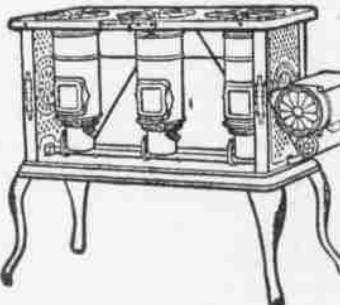

Sealing wax in the present form was first noted in London in the middle of the sixteenth century. A sort of earth was used by the ancient Egyptians in sealing papers and documents. The Egyptians placed such earth on the horns of cattle, and upon it was stamped the seal of the priest. Thus were identified the cattle to be used in the various sacrifices.—London Saturday Review.

President Roosevelt has refused to retract his statement that Meyer and Haywood, officials of the Western Federation of Miners, charged with implication in the murder of former Gov. Sweeney of Idaho, are undesirable citizens, and is profoundly indifferent to the condemnation of either labor or capitalist critics.

At Oak Ridge, the Virginia estate of Thomas F. Ryan near Lynchburg, died Monday afternoon, Judge W. G. Loving superintendent of the estate, shot and almost instantly killed Theo. J. Estes, son of the sheriff of Nelson county. Judge Loving immediately surrendered. He charged Estes with drugging his daughter, Elizabeth, aged 19, and assaulting her while in a drugged condition, and after learning of the alleged incident from the lips of his daughter the judge committed the deed. He was admitted to bail in the sum of $5,000.

Fire which started Tuesday night in the planer room of the Port Blakely Mill Company's lumber mill at Port Blakely, Wash., destroyed the entire plant, one of the largest lumber manufacturing establishments in the world, entailing a loss of between $300,000 and $500,000.

Don't hunt trouble. It will find you. There is not the slightest sense back of a great deal of hope.

When a man talks about his principles, he usually means his prejudices.

There isn't a great deal of sunshine in the smile a man produces when he loses.

A man is always willing to lend a helping hand, but he does hate to lend money.

The man who wants to sell it is usually the one who has the least political influence.

The man who brags usually has a lot to say about the things he is going to do. What he has done is far less important.

When a man stops to listen to two others arguing, he isn't after information. He wants to butt in and air his own views on one side or the other.—Atchison Globe.

Hot Weather Ahead.

Many a housewife is wondering how she will pass through the coming summer months with the stove she well knows will make the kitchen unbearably hot—to say nothing of the dirt, dust and ashes that will add to the discomfort.

There is a way out of it all—a way that not only lessens the work and keeps the kitchen cool, but that also reduces fuel expenses. This convenience, comfort and economy is all effected by the New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove, an oil stove so superior to other makes that it is fast replacing the coal and wood range, the old-fashioned oil stove, and in many cases the gas stove.

Anyone who has had to wait ten or fifteen minutes for the fire to get started will appreciate the New Perfection, which gives a strong working flame at the onset of lighting. "Blue Flame" means the hottest and cleanest flame produced by any stove. The flame is always under immediate control and can be raised or lowered instantly. The convenience of this will be understood when it is considered that the flame of one burner is boiling the kettle or roasting a large joint, that of another can be reduced to simmering point—in this way enabling the housewife to cook a variety of dishes at one time.

The New Perfection is made in three sizes, with one, two, and three burners.

Another home comfort is the Rayo Lamp, which produces a light of unusual brightness, yet soft and mellow—a light that will not hurt the eyes. It is highly ornamental, being made of brass throughout and beautifully nickel-plated. Every lamp is warranted and makes a valuable handsome addition to any home.

The New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove and the Rayo Lamp are two real essentials to home comfort. Their easy operation, absolute safety and handsome appearance commend them wherever stoves and lamps are used.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.
